

Looking for a Speaker?

Ed Dickinson, “ The Speaker of Renown ”, was accredited as a Professional Speaker by the National Speakers Association of Australia, and is a Fellow of the Australian Institute of Training and Development, a Paul Harris Fellow of Rotary International, the author of two books, a professional emcee, the producer of a tape and a CD on speaking skills, and a former Victorian President & Secretary of Australian Rostrum (Victoria) Inc. He is a member of the National Trust, the RACV Club, the WellSpring Centre, and an associate member of the Graduate Union of Melbourne University.

Ed Dickinson offers three keynote addresses to enhance the skills of your members: [Approximate time of presentation: 45 – 40 minutes]

- A The Secrets of Selling Yourself
- B Achieving by Doing
- C The Power of telling Stories

Why not call him now and book him to address your group?

Also, as a qualified Professional Trainer, Ed Dickinson offers organisations the following half hour tutorials on how to:

- Plan, prepare, and present a simple speech without the use of notes
- Structure a speech on one topic more than 50 different ways
- Control nerves when called on to speak in public
- Care for the voice and improve its timbre
- Create word pictures in the minds of the listeners in the audience
- Ask meaningful questions
- Be able to select the right job applicant through good interviewing skills
- Answer questions with confidence and authority
- Project the right image when being interviewed
- Understand body language, and use gesture when speaking
- Be convincing debaters
- Be a humourous speaker
- Develop memory aids
- Use a Public Address System
- Read aloud to an audience (and maintain 80% eye contact with the audience)
- Use visual aids
- Make impromptu and short notice speeches.
- Be a good listener
- Pace your presentation to sell your message, and not overstep the time allowed. (The true skill of oratory.)
